

General Description

This township consists of rolling mountain ridges on the West slope of the East Humboldt Range. It is watered by various springs & small creeks.

The land in the Ravines is adapted to agriculture while the rolling mountains afford good grazing.

There is no timber in the township.

At points as noted I found old corpes of stone, properly marked which would average about $14 \times 12 \times 8$ ins. with mounds averaging 1 ft. high by 3 ft. base & pits $18 \times 18 \times 12$, which I destroyed.