General Description

Surface mostly hilly & broken by ridges & ravines,

Soil stoney

Very fine Nut Pine timber on the South boundary of Sec. 36, from which the Settlers in Grass Valley obtain a portion of their supply of fuel and timber

The stream which crosses the South Boundary of Sec. 35 has its source in the mountains to the South East and runs North Westly into Grass Valley, at present it affords but a small amount of water which sinks and rises alternately; along this stream there is just rate land for cultivation from 1/2 chains in width, a portion of which is located and improved
